When Worlds Collide

It slowly dawned on me that the narrative world started in Melody’s.

If you catch up from historical perspectives in the present.

The concept of time is relative and subjective. Our universe may be described as Einstein’s theory of relativity. The concept of time becomes misperceived in the context of space-time. Even in a

4D universe, the flow of time is not constant but relative. It depends on the observer, their frame of reference, and the speed of motion.

The concept of time is not absolute but relative to the observer. Events that happen in one reference frame may apparently occur simultaneously in another. This relativity of time is a fundamental aspect of Einstein’s theory.

The concept of time is a subjective experience that depends on our perception and the context in which we observe events.
